OSBORNE STILL MISSING.

Nothing Further Heard of the Man Who Boomed Gentville.

Nothing further has been heard of I. S. Osborne, the missing real-estate dealer, who boomed property in Gentville, the neighborhood of the Cereale works. Yesterday John Hohn brought suit against Osborne to enforce a mechanic's lien for $630 for brick furnished for the block which Osborne started. It is probable that the affairs connected with the new block, as well as a dozen or more of the cottages, may have to be settled in the courts. Those who furnished material and work are making demands and the Indiana Mortgage Building and Loan Association holds mortgages upon all the property. The association loses nothing, so the directors say, for it is secured by mortgages and it loaned Osborne but 50 per cent. upon buildings erected by him. Those who lose are the owners of the homes and workmen who remain unpaid. One workman finds a lien against his property of $171, another of $200, and another of $300. There are smaller claims and they aggregate a considerable amount. Before Osborne left three weeks ago he borrowed some small sums.

Osborne's disappearance is a mystery to those who trusted him. They say he was perfectly honest. Nothing criminal has been shown in any of his dealings. The only explanation given is that he attempted to build up Gentville, build an elegant four-story block and then discovered that he had "bit off more than he could chew." Ninety per cent. of the houses in the addition he started to build are now vacant. He is only upon those homes built this year that he has been able to collect. Those who trusted him and placed confidence in him say he could have remained here and sold all his claims in a few years, for he had the exclusive management of the new addition and was making money. A spokesman who is interested in Brightwood property was talking to Osborne about getting him to boom that suburb. He was high in spirit over his transactions. Osborne's disappearance is thought to mean more than appears from a list of losses now known.

THE SULLIVAN COUNTY SUIT.

Senator Wishard Returns from Examining Apportionment Case.

Senator Wishard returned from Sullivan county yesterday, where he went to look into the suit brought by the Democrats to set aside the apportionment law passed by the last Legislature.
The complaint was filed on Monday last, and was heard Tuesday morning by Judge Moffett. Senator Wishard, the chief argument on behalf of the plaintiff, and attorneys Harris and Maple, of Sullivan, spoke on behalf of the county officers. A special term of the Circuit Court was held for the purpose of hearing the case.
The case has been appealed to the Supreme Court," said Senator Wishard last night. "The position of the attorneys in seeking to set aside the act of 1885 is exactly opposite to that which they assumed before Judge Brown on the proceedings to void the act of 1885 declared unconstitutional. As the matter stands, the Supreme Court will have to pass upon the merits of the apportionment, as well as upon the technical questions."

CHURCHES TO UNITE

CHRIST CONGREGATION VESTRYMEN VOTE TO JOIN THAT OF GRACE.

A Magnificent Cathedral, to Cost Probably $100,000, Will Be Erected at Central Ave. and Seventh.

STONE CHURCH FOR SALE

PICTURESQUE BUILDING ON MONUMENT PLACE TO BE DISPOSED OF.

History of the Two Organizations That Propose to Join Fortunes—Bishop Knickerbocker's Plan.

At a meeting of the vestry of Christ Church, held yesterday afternoon, resolutions were unanimously adopted favoring the union of the Christ Church congregation with that of Grace Cathedral and joining with Bishop White in the erection of an elegant cathedral building at the corner of Central avenue and Seventh street, to be known as Christ Cathedral. The resolutions were adopted upon the report of a committee appointed to consult with the vestry of Grace Cathedral, Bishop White and others of the two congregations. The congregation of Christ Church is one of the wealthiest in the city and the cathedral which it is proposed to erect will be one of the finest church buildings in the city. It will first be necessary to sell the old stone church at the intersection of Meridian street and Monument Place and to obtain the official sanction of Bishop White and the vestry of the cathedral. The steps thus far taken are initiative, but the union is pretty sure of coming, which will be one of the most important church changes which has taken place in this city in a number of years.

For five years or more there has been occasional talk heard among the Episcopalians of the city regarding a union between one of the downtown parishes and the cathedral. There are two downtown parishes, namely, St. Paul's and Christ Church. They are but a few blocks apart and it has been argued that either could unite interests with the cathedral to advantage.

The talk has never taken definite action until recently, when a committee was chosen from the Christ Church vestry to investigate the advisability of such a union. St. Paul's congregation has talked some in time past of doing the same, but the talk at no time resulted in anything being done. The change will require some time and it will take time in which to adopt plans and build a cathedral.

The Christ Church property, one of the most desirable business corners in the city, has been offered for sale. The building is of stone and one of the most popular of the downtown churches. The vestry does not propose to sell at a sacrifice, but as the property is well located no trouble in making a sale is anticipated. The money obtained from the sale will be added to the building fund for the cathedral should the union of the two churches be decided upon. The property is worth from $20,000 to $30,000. It will be remembered that Bishop Knickerbocker left $10,000 for a new cathedral and Grace Church has a building fund besides. The plans for a cathedral are indefinite, but the structure is expected to cost something like $100,000.

Grace Cathedral has always been known as the Bishop's church. The first structure was at the corner of Pennsylvania and St. Joe streets. A portion of the building was removed to the present location on Central avenue and Seventh street. It was the hope of Bishop Knickerbocker to have on that corner a cathedral, the young ladies' school and the trustee's house. When Bishop White took charge of the diocese after the death of Bishop Knickerbocker, he took up the work laid down by his predecessor and in his first diocesan address, urged the building of a cathedral. His idea was for a building which would be in the heart of the city, like the cathedral of the city of Indiana. This diocese is one of the most flourishing in the country and a small frame building has always served as a cathedral. For a time it was discontinued because the members of the church seemed to go more freely to St. Paul's and Christ Church and the membership did not seem to suffer. A warrant three churches. After the old frame building had been removed to Central avenue, there was a demand from those members of the church living in that locality, that the cathedral idea be resumed. The congregation since then has grown some, but it is still small. The efforts of the members to erect a cathedral seemed hopeless, but with the aid of Christ Church the building can be built readily.

The location of the proposed cathedral is one of the most desirable in the city. It is at the southeast corner of Central and Seventh. The church owns a large frontage of the ground. The little frame cathedral now stands on the rear of the corner ground. Adjoining it are the buildings of Knickerbocker Hall, the young ladies' school. Rev. C. S. Sargent is at present rector of the cathedral.

Christ Church was organized fifty-seven years ago. Among its members are some of the best-known citizens of Indianapolis. The question of a change has been thoroughly considered by them, and a large majority are in favor of making it. Many of the members live in the north part of the city, as near the location of the cathedral as that of the present church. The change would be of no inconvenience to them, and the union would strengthen the Episcopal churches of the city. Rev. J. H. Ranger is rector of Christ Church. Richard L. Talbot, a vestryman at Christ Church, was asked, last night, regarding the proposed union and the erection of a cathedral. He said:

"The committee which has been looking into the matter has a statement prepared, and I do not feel at liberty to talk. It is true that we have adopted resolutions looking to the erection of a cathedral. It will require time to complete the plans, and we do not propose to proceed hastily. I do not care to say anything further until more consideration has been given the subject."

Inquiries About Rose Company.

Mayor Denny yesterday received a letter from the Detroit Red Cedar and Lumber Company saying that it had subscribed for a book issued by the Rose Publishing Company, of West Maryland street, paying $5 for it, but that it had never arrived and that no answer could be secured by correspondence. The company wanted to know something about the firm. The contract between the parties, the letter said, was that the Detroit company was to have an advertisement inserted in the heading of a register, presumably a hotel register, and that a copy of the book was to be sent to it. The directory shows that the Rose Publishing Company does business on West Maryland street, but local printers say they know nothing of such a firm.

WILL NOT COMPROMISE.

Tax Commissioners Decline a Proposition from G. R. & I. Company.

The Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway Company was represented before the State Board of Tax Commissioners yesterday by W. W. Peabody, of Cincinnati. The revenue of the road, he said, depended chiefly upon the crops of Nebraska. Last year there was a failure of crops and, consequently, the revenue of his road was materially cut down. The old B. & O. in Ohio was assessed at $7,500 a mile, while the road in Indiana is compelled to pay $22,000 a mile. Mr. Peabody did not think this was equitable. He did not want the board to understand that he was complaining. He agreed that the past work of the board had done much toward placing Indiana on the list of the rich States. The Union in point of wealth. He hoped the board would reduce the assessment on the B. & O. Southwestern to $10,000 a mile.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana road yesterday made another attempt to compromise the tax suit, but the board refused to accept any of the propositions submitted.

Monday the board will hear the complaint of the Indianapolis & Eastern Railway Company. Next Saturday is the last day in which railroad companies can appear. After that appeals must be made to the decisions of the county boards of review.

LAW WILL NOT STAND

BREWERS OBTAIN AN OPINION ON NICHOLSON MEASURE.

Ex-Judge Elliott, Ex-Judge Allen, Zollars and Other Prominent Lawyers Have Been Employed.

The State Brewers' League has made preparations for a powerful attack on the Nicholson law, and yesterday the officers of the league felt jubilant over the statement made by their array of legal talent. Mr. Albert Lieber stated last night that the league's attorneys, after giving the new law some consideration, came to the conclusion, and so stated to the clients, that the law would fail to stand before the Supreme Court when that body should come to pass upon it. The brewers are particularly felicitating themselves on this opinion, coming, as it does, from a half dozen of the most prominent attorneys in the State. One of the lawyers who have been employed by the league, and from whom the expression of opinion was obtained, is Chief Justice Byron K. Elliott, of the Supreme Court; Baker & Daniels, ex-Judge Allen Zollars of Fort Wayne; Lamb & Beasley of Terre Haute; and Stuart, Stuart & Hammond of Lafayette. It is also stated that the brewers obtained a written opinion from a short while ago from Chambers, Pickens & Moore, stating that the law was unconstitutional. The opinion is in the local opinion feature. It has not yet been determined just where to bring the test suit.

Judge Elliott was seen last night at his home and asked for an opinion as to the validity of the law. He said he was not prepared to give an opinion other than an off-hand one from a mere reading of the law without investigation of authorities on the questions involved.

"From this reading do you believe the law valid?" he was asked.

"The question will have to be answered with reservations," he said. "From the reading of the law, as I said, without study, I am of the opinion that parts of it are invalid."

"Will you say what parts of it you believe to be invalid?" he was asked.

"No, I do not care to specify the particular sections I believe to be faulty."

"Are the sections which are faulty such as would carry with them the entire law, or are they sections capable of separation, so that, being declared unconstitutional, the remainder of the law might stand?"

"I cannot answer that question now. There are parts of the law which might be stricken out without affecting the law in its entirety, while other parts would carry with them the whole, if found to be invalid."

"How about the local-option section of the law? It has been said that this would be one of the principal points of attack upon the law?"

"I believe local option is constitutional. Whether or not the section of the Nicholson law on local-option law within the meaning of the Constitution I am not prepared to say."

NICHOLSON LAW ARGUMENT.

In the Phil Zaph Case It Is Claimed the Law Is Unconstitutional.

The case of the State vs. Phil Zaph was yesterday argued before Judge McCray on indictment for violating the Nicholson law. Baker & Daniels appeared for the defendant and made a motion to quash the indictment on the ground that the law is unconstitutional. It was argued that the title is defective; that the law refers only to quart houses and those not selling under license, but that the law uses the words "to regulate and restrict." E. F. Ritter, assistant prosecuting attorney, White and Alford in the argument for the constitutionality of the act. Judge McCray took the question under advisement.

ELECTRICITY PLAYED HAVOC.

One of the Worst Storms of Its Kind Seen Here in Years.

The telephone service was the poorest last night that has been experienced here for some time, poor even as it has been in the past year. The trouble last night was due to the electrical condition of the atmosphere following the storm of the evening, which was pronounced to be the worst electrical storm the members of this city have experienced in years. Early in the evening a telephone wire fell on a trolley wire on Massachusetts avenue, burning out the trolley wire and causing the confusion. The board blazed out into the room and caused the confusion. The telephone exchange and thereby adding to the confusion. The fire department was summoned and the exchange was put out. Quite a number of telephones were thrown out of service by the accident. Electricians were called in to restore things to their natural order.

Several circuits of the city are light service worked badly on account of the electrical conditions of the atmosphere.

A GOOD ATHLETIC BILL.

Some of the Features of "Kid" McCoy's Performance Monday Night.

Few, if any, such exhibitions in this city ever offered the varied attractions in an athletic sense as will be found in the programme of "Kid" McCoy's entertainment at English's Opera House Monday night.

The sparring and wrestling bouts are between well-known local athletes, and McCoy appears in one of his bag-punching exhibitions, as well as two four-round contests. In punching the bag he is surpassed by few, and said to be the equal of Ed Corbett. His boxing and wrestling bouts are of a character, but when he sails in upon the middle weight he tries to earn the $50 offered for staying four rounds. McCoy will mean business from the start. It will be "keep" is promised, and the audience will see lively work.

The novelty of the programme will be the bout between the colored and white boxers, the former with lamp-black on his gloves and the latter with flour.

SHE WANTS $150,000

MRS. HORACE G. BROWN DEMANDS THIS ALIMONY OF HER HUSBAND.

A Sensational Divorce Case Filed Last Evening—Mrs. Agnes Lanham Named as Co-Respondent.

A sensational divorce suit was filed in the Superior Court last evening. The plaintiff is Minnie Lorena Brown, the young wife of Horace Greeley Brown, a well-known man about town. The decree of separation is asked on scriptural grounds. Mrs. Brown charges that her husband has been guilty of serious misconduct, and names Agnes Lanham as the woman in the case. Brown is accused of having lavished a great deal of money on Mrs. Lanham in the way of settling house rents, livery charges and living expenses. Agnes Lanham is the wife of Olie Lanham, who was interested with the late Sim Coy in a road house east of the city.

The Browns have for several years occupied a cottage on School street, on the South Side. Brown is said to be worth a great deal of money, his wife in her complaint estimating his fortune at $300,000. Of this amount she asks the court to award her $150,000 in alimony. Mrs. Brown's maiden name was Minnie Stackhouse. She is about twenty-six years of age, while her husband is about twenty-eight. The couple were married in Aberdeen, O., in 1888, but shortly after their marriage came to Indianapolis. They have no children. Daniel Brown, the father of the defendant, died several years ago, leaving his son a large fortune. An extensive stock farm in Iowa represented part of the estate. One of the remunerative properties left to young Brown is a large gravel bank near Noblesville, from which the Lake Erie & Western railroad gets its supply of gravel. It is said that the owner receives $1 for every carload of gravel taken from the pit by the railroad.

Mrs. Lanham, whose name is connected with that of the defendant, is a large, fine-looking woman of twenty-five. She dresses well and makes a dashing appearance. For some time, it is said, Brown has been keeping a horse and buggy at one of the leading livery barns, and that the employees of the place have their instructions to allow Mrs. Lanham to use the same for her own desires. Brown avers that his relations with the woman have always been of a proper character, and declares that his friendship is purely platonic. Recently he told one of his friends that he loaned the Lanham considerable money, and that he was acting in the capacity of a friend to the family. Some time ago Mrs. Lanham brought suit against Adolph Erdman, a South Illinois-street pawn broker, for the possession of a diamond brooch which her husband had deposited with him. She succeeded in recovering the jewel by replevin, and it is said that Brown became her bondsman in the sum of $500. Brown was formerly engaged in the bicycle business, but retired when the Century bicycle establishment was burned on Virginia avenue, two years ago. Since then he has not been regularly engaged in business. The suit will not come on for trial until after the summer vacation of the county courts.

A Passenger Killed Her Husband.

Anna M. Nelson yesterday entered suit against the Railway Officials and Employees' Accident Insurance Company for $5,000, due, as alleged, by reason of the policy held by her husband in the defendant company. She states that she is the widow of James T. Nelson, who was shot while on duty as a passenger conductor by a drunken passenger whose name to the plaintiff is unknown. The claim is made that the insured met his death by accident within the meaning of the terms of the policy. The death occurred in 1894, but the locality is not stated.

For Breach of Promise.

Lucinda McFarland yesterday brought suit in the Superior Court against Levi H. Roberts for breach of promise, demanding damages of $10,000. It is alleged that the defendant wooed and courted the plaintiff "for many years," under promise of marriage, but that he now refuses to make good his engagement to marry her. The defendant lives at 135 North Illinois street.

An Order Against Crayton.

Judge Harvey yesterday granted a restraining order to Maggie C. F. Crayton against her husband, William D. Crayton, and the Indiana Car and Foundry Company, prohibiting him from disposing of his wages or in any way interfering with or mistreating the plaintiff during the pendency of the trial for divorce.

Fines in Lottery Cases.

Special Judge Matter in Police Court yesterday fined Robert Duncan $100 and costs for selling lottery tickets issued by a Kentucky lottery, and James B. Cain, for the same offense, $50 and costs. The cases were appealed. There are other cases against Duncan already pending on appeal.

NEW BETHEL A. M. E. CHURCH.

Old Structure Remodeled—To Be Reopened To-Day.

After months of hard work the congregation of Bethel A. M. E. Church, Vermont and Columbia streets, has seen the remodeling of the edifice completed and today, at 10:30, Bishop Wayman, of Baltimore, will reopen the auditorium. The Bishop will be assisted by a number of clergymen from abroad, together with many of the city pastors. This church is the oldest of all the colored churches of the city. It was organized by Bishop Wm. Paul Quinn about a year ago. It has grown to large proportions, having a membership now of over 1,500, 800 of whom have been received into the church within the last two years by the present pastor, Rev. T. W. Henderson. The side walls were frescoed in a very tasteful manner. The main room will seat over fifteen hundred and when chairs are put around the walls two hundred more can be seated.

Dr. Henderson is quite anxious that the white citizens should see the church as it is and invites all to attend at least one of the services to-day. Bishop Wayman will preach morning and night, and at 8 in the afternoon a mass meeting will be held, at which a series of addresses will be delivered and some fine music will be rendered by the two choirs of the church. Tomorrow night, under the direction of Prof. Willis Martin, the cantata of "Esther" will be rendered.

Another Theory as to the Bones.

It is now advanced as a theory that the human bones found in a grove north of Irvington last week were those of Benjamin Fallender, a Jew, whose body was stolen by medical students last winter. The bones were taken for dissecting purposes, and it is thought that perhaps after the body was completed the bones were buried in the woods.

Performance Prevented by the Storm.

The steady downpour of rain that set in at 6 o'clock last evening, accompanied by dangerous symptoms of a heavy wind, storm determined the managers of Wildwood Park to give no performance of "The Fairies" and "The Merry Dwarfs" which was to have been given to-night.
